INTRODUCTION

Constitutional and statutory provisions require voters to authorize general obligation (GO) bonds issued by state and local governments. For bonds issued by the state, the authorization must be made through a statewide election. Local bonds must be approved by voters within the jurisdiction authorizing the bond. In 2000, voters approved Proposition 39, which gave school districts the authority to issue bonds with 55 percent voter approval provided that the district adheres to certain criteria such as establishing a citizens' oversight committee, providing a list of projects to be funded, conducting annual performance and financial audits, and limiting the property taxes used to repay the bonds. School districts not wanting to be subject to the additional requirements must receive two-thirds voter approval of the GO bond measure.

Local governments must also seek voter approval for levies of certain revenue exactions and taxes. Statewide ballots have included measures to increase or reduce state taxes as well, under a limited set of circumstances.

After each statewide election, the California Debt and Investment Advisory Commission (CDIAC) publishes a statistical summary and analysis of bond and tax measures appearing on the ballot. This report details the results of state and local government bond and tax measures appearing on the November 6, 2012 General Election ballot. In addition, this report provides a comparison to the November 2010 General Election results.

Nova Edwards of the Research and Policy Analysis Unit compiled the data and prepared the analysis to follow. Doug Skarr reviewed and edited this document.

NOVEMBER 2012 GENERAL ELECTION RESULTS

During the November 6, 2012 General Election, voters considered 242 local and three state fiscal measures. Of these measures, 113 (46.7 percent) would have authorized the issuance of GO bonds and 129 (53.3 percent) would have levied a tax (or assessment). Of the tax proposals, voters considered 62 local measures to levy a special tax whose proceeds would be allocated for a specific project, 64 local measures to impose a general tax, and three state tax measures.

For both state and local measures, the voter approval threshold depends on the type and purpose of the bond or tax (Figure 1).

MEASURE TYPE AND THRESHOLD

BALLOT MEASURE	REQUIREMENT FOR PASSAGE
Local GO Bond - Education (w/ Prop. 39 limits)	55 percent
Local GO Bond - Education (w/o Prop. 39 limits)	Two-thirds
Local GO Bond - Non-education	Two-thirds
Local Special Tax	Two-thirds
Local General Tax	Majority
State Bond and Tax	Majority

Voters approved 180 (74.4 percent) of the fiscal measures on the November ballot – 94 bond measures, 33 special tax measures, 51 general tax measures, and two state tax measures. Local GO bond measures received the greatest support from voters by receiving 83.2 percent voter approval (Figure 2).

GENERAL OBLIGATION BOND MEASURES

Voters were presented with 113 local GO bond measures on the November 2012 General Election ballot. Two-thirds voter approval is needed for non-education GO bonds and 55 percent for education GO bonds under Proposition 39. There was one non-Proposition 39 education GO bond that required two-thirds voter approval; the measure received 74.5 percent voter approval. Approximately 83 percent of GO bond measures presented to voters were approved, and nearly 90 percent of the volume of the GO bond measures was approved (Figure 3).

Of the GO bonds that appeared on the ballot, 94 percent would have financed facilities and programs for kindergarten through community college. Six percent were for miscellaneous purposes, capital improvements, and public health and safety (Figure 4). The following summarizes the results of the five different purposes:

K-12 EDUCATION FACILITIES. Voters approved nearly 86 percent of the measures providing issuance authority ranging in value from $830,000 to $848 million.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE FACILITIES. All but one of the community college facilities GO bond measures were approved by voters. Two of the approved bond measures include community college districts that span multiple counties.

MISCELLANEOUS. Only one of the four miscellaneous GO bond measures received voter approval. Funds from the $195 million bond will be used to improve the safety, quality, and disabled access of neighborhood park and recreation facilities and enhance water quality.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS. One of the two measures in this category received approval by 72.1 percent of voters. The approved $30 million GO bond measure is for street and watershed improvements. This measure is unique because funds will be used for an integrated green infrastructure such as rain gardens and permeable paving (this reduces runoff because it allows storm water to move through the surface).

PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY. The only measure in this category received 73.4 percent voter approval. Voters approved this $186 million GO bond measure to provide rapid, lifesaving emergency medical care.

TAX MEASURES

There were 129 tax measures placed on the 2012 General Election ballot: three statewide tax measures and 126 local tax measures. The three state measures voters were asked to consider were Proposition 30: Temporary Taxes to Fund Education/Guaranteed Local Public Safety Funding; Proposition 38: Tax to Fund Education and Early Childhood Programs; and Proposition 39: Tax Treatment for Multistate Businesses/Clean Energy and Energy Efficiency Funding. Propositions 30 and 39 both garnered voter approval, but Proposition 38 failed to obtain the necessary votes for passage.

Proposition 30, predominately a schools funding measure, received 55.4 percent voter approval. It authorizes a seven-year increase of income taxes on earnings over \$250,000 and a four-year sales tax increase of $\frac{1}{4}$ cent. Proposition 38, which received only 28.7 percent voter approval, would have authorized a twelve-year income tax increase using a sliding scale. Funding would have been used for K-12 schools and early childhood programs as well as to repay state debt for four years. Proposition 39 passed with 61.1 percent of the vote. Passage of this measure requires multistate businesses to pay income taxes based on a percentage of their sales in California. For five years, the revenues received will be dedicated to clean/efficient energy projects. In addition, the revenue will be used to increase school funding.

RESULTS BY PURPOSE

Figure 6 groups the tax measures into six categories by purpose: general government, K-12 education, public health and safety, capital improvements, community college facilities, and miscellaneous.

GENERAL GOVERNMENT. Voters considered 30 sales tax measures, 17 transient occupancy taxes (TOT), eight utility users taxes (UUT), three business tax measures, and two business license fee/tax measures. In addition, there was one each of the following: cardroom tax, excise tax, gross receipts tax, state income tax, state sales and income tax, parcel tax, and real property transfer tax. Voters approved 79.1 percent of these measures.

K-12 EDUCATION. Voters approved 72.7 percent of the 22 special tax measures for K-12 education purposes.

RESULTS BY REGION

The election results also are divided into five regions: Bay Area, Central Valley, Los Angeles, San Diego/Inland Empire, and Other (Figure 7).¹

Figure 8 displays the bond and tax measures included in the 2012 General Election. The Los Angeles region had the highest passage rate (80.4 percent) with the Bay Area next highest (78.8 percent), followed by the Central Valley region (71.1 percent).

Listing of individual measures by county and region can be found in Appendix B and C.

¹ Ten counties did not place any measures on the 2012 General Election ballot: Alpine, Del Norte, Inyo, Mariposa, Modoc, Mono, Sierra, Stanislaus, Sutter, and Trinity.

COMPARISON OF THE 2010 AND 2012 GENERAL ELECTIONS

COMPARISON BY THE MEASURE'S VOTE REQUIREMENT

In the 2012 General Election, over seventy-nine percent of the measures requiring a majority vote, predominately for general government purposes, were approved. The total number of proposed measures requiring majority voter approval in 2012 was 18.3 percent less than in 2010, but the approved measures in 2012 exceeded those 2010.

Approximately 43.4 percent of the 2012 General Election measures and roughly 32.8 percent of the 2010 General Election measures required 55 percent voter approval; each of these measures was comprised of education GO bonds. While strongly supported in 2010, the total number and passage rate demonstrated even more support in 2012 for education GO bond measures.

Measures requiring two-thirds voter approval received the least amount of voter support, but showed a marked increase from 2010 in passage rate and number approved. Most of these measures consist of special taxes. However, in both the 2010 and 2012 General Elections, there were GO bond measures for projects such as school facilities, swimming pools, healthcare facilities, and street improvements.

ELECTION RESULTS BY VOTE REQUIREMENT, 2010 AND 2012 GENERAL ELECTIONS

VOTE REQUIREMENT	2010			2012

Two-thirds	49	16	32.7	70	37	52.9
TOTAL	195	116	59.5%	242	180	74.4%

COMPARISON BY TYPE OF MEASURE

The GO bond measures received greater voter support than the tax measures in both the 2012 and 2010 General Elections (83.2 percent and 73.1 percent, respectively). The GO bond measures were comprised mainly of education measures. The majority of the GO bond measures required 55 percent voter approval. Four of the eight GO bond measures on the 2012 General Election ballot that required two-thirds voter approval passed. In the 2010 General Election, only one of three GO bond measures requiring two-thirds voter approval received voter support.

Voters passed more tax measures in the 2012 General Election than in the 2010 General Election. Although the number of general tax measures is nearly 18 percent less in the 2012 General Election than the 2010 General Election, the passage rate was higher (79.7 percent to 64.1 percent). Typically, special tax measures receive lower passage rates than general tax measures due to the higher vote threshold of two-thirds. In the 2012 General Election, the number of special tax measures increased by almost 27 percent from the 2010 General Election and the passage rate was 53 percent higher (53.2 percent to 34.7 percent, respectively). There was one state tax measure in the 2010 General Election (that was not approved) and three state tax measures in the 2012 General Election (two measures received voter support).

COMPARISON BY REGION

In the 2012 General Election, voters in each of the regions approved measures with high passage rates ranging from nearly 67 percent to approximately 80 percent. However, in the 2010 General Election, voters considered the ballot measures more conservatively as evidenced by the results in the San Diego/Inland Empire and the Central Valley regions (47.4 percent and 39.4 percent, respectively). In both the 2010 and 2012 General Elections, the Los Angeles and Bay Area regions had the highest passage rates of bond and tax measures.

COMPARISON BY PURPOSE

The number of public health and safety measures decreased by 60.8 percent from 2010 to 2012 and it is the only purpose category where voter support waned in 2012.

Relative to the other categories, the miscellaneous category received the least support from voters in 2010 and 2012, but in 2012 nearly twice as many miscellaneous measures were passed than measures in the health and safety and capital improvement categories combined. Projects that comprise the miscellaneous category for 2012 included the following:

- Algae and Weed Control/Wetlands
- Animal Care
- Open Space/Creeks/Reservoirs
- Energy Efficiency/Clean Energy Jobs
- Firefighter Facilities
- Install Lockable Mailboxes
- Libraries/Library Services
