INTRODUCTION

Constitutional and statutory provisions require voters to authorize general obligation (GO) bonds issued by state and local governments. For bonds issued by the state, the authorization must be made through a statewide election. Local bonds must be approved by voters within the jurisdiction authorizing the bond.

Local governments must also seek local voter approval for levies of certain revenue exactions, and especially taxes. Statewide ballots have included measures to increase or reduce state taxes, as well, under a limited set of circumstances.

After each statewide election, the California Debt and Investment Advisory Commission (CDIAC) publishes a statistical summary and analysis of bond and tax measures appearing on the ballot. This report, the 22nd in the series, details the results of state and local government bond and tax measures appearing on the November 4, 2008 General Election ballot. Voters in 47 counties considered 225 local bond and tax measures.

This report provides analysis and statistics on the results of the November 2008 election as well as a comparison to the November 2006 General Election results.

Nova Edwards compiled the data and prepared the analysis. John Decker reviewed and edited this document.

NOVEMBER 2008 GENERAL ELECTION RESULTS

During the November 4, 2008 General Election, voters considered 225 local and four state fiscal measures. One hundred nine of these measures (47.6 percent) would have authorized the issuance of GO bonds, four of which are State GO bond measures, and 120 (52.4 percent) would have levied a tax (or assessment). Of the tax proposals, voters considered 63 measures to levy a special tax whose proceeds would be allocated for a specific project and 57 measures to impose a general tax.

Voters approved 175 (76.4 percent) of the fiscal measures on the November ballot – 98 bond measures, 37 special tax measures, and 40 general tax measures. Local bond measures received the greatest support from voters by receiving 90.5 percent voter approval. Figure 1 summarizes the election results by type of measure.

GENERAL OBLIGATION BOND MEASURES

Voters were presented with four State and 105 local GO bond measures on the November 2008 General Election ballot. Two-thirds voter approval is needed for non-education GO bonds and 55 percent for education GO bonds (there were two exceptions in which education GO bonds required two-thirds voter approval); however, the requirement for passage for State GO bonds is a majority vote. Three of the State GO bonds were approved by voters, but if the passage requirement were two-thirds instead of a majority, none of the State GO bond measures would have passed. Below is a list of the four State GO bond measures that appeared on the November 2008 General Election ballot:

Proposition 1A: Safe, Reliable High-Speed Passenger Train Bond Act

This measure, which voters approved by a 52.7 percent margin, provides for the issuance of a $9.95 billion GO bond to establish a high-speed train service for Southern California counties, the Sacramento/San Joaquin Valley, and the San Francisco Bay Area.

Proposition 3: Children's Hospital Bond Act, Grant Program

Voters approved this measure by a 55.3 percent margin. This measure authorizes the issuance of $980.0 million in GO bonds for the construction, expansion, remodeling, renovation, furnishing and equipping of children's hospitals. Eighty percent of the bond proceeds will be distributed to hospitals that focus on children with illnesses such as leukemia, cancer, heart defects, diabetes, sickle cell anemia and cystic fibrosis. The remaining 20 percent of bond proceeds will be allocated to University of California general acute care hospitals.

Proposition 10: Alternative Fuel Vehicles and Renewable Energy

This GO bond measure, which failed to garner a majority of the vote (40.5 percent of the voters supported this measure), would have provided $5 billion towards alternative fuel vehicles and renewable energy. $3.425 billion would have been used to assist consumers purchase high fuel economy or alternative fuel vehicles and to fund research for alternative fuel technology. The remaining $1.25 billion would have been utilized for research, development and production of solar energy, and other types of renewable energy technology. In addition, it would have provided grants to cities for renewable energy projects and to colleges for training in renewable and energy efficiency technologies.

Proposition 12: Veteran’s Bond Act of 2008

The Veteran’s Bond Act of 2008 received 63.6 percent voter approval. This act authorizes the GO bond issuance of $900 million to provide loans to California veterans to purchase farms and homes.

Figure 2 provides a summary of the volume of State and local GO bond measures on the November 2008 General Election ballot. Eighty-nine percent of GO bond measures presented to voters were approved, and nearly 99 percent of the volume of the GO bond measures was approved.

Ninety-six of GO bonds that appeared on the ballot would have financed facilities and programs for kindergarten through community college. Eighty-seven of those measures would have been for kindergarten through high school (K-12) school facilities and programs; nine measures would have authorized GO bonds for community college facilities and vocational training programs. Eight measures were for miscellaneous purposes, and five measures were for public health and safety. The following summarizes the results of the four different purposes:

- K-12 Education Facilities. Voters considered 87 GO bond measures for K-12 education facilities and approved 77. They approved issuances ranging in value from $2.44 million to $1.2 billion. Since Proposition 39 was approved by voters in 2000, most local GO bonds require 55 percent for approval instead of a two-thirds vote. Of the 87 GO bonds for K-12 education facilities, only two required two-thirds voter approval; one received 68.0 percent and the other failed receiving 54.0 percent of the vote. Without the passage of Proposition 39, only 44 (50.6 percent) of the K-12 education facilities GO bonds would have received two-thirds voter approval.
- Community College Facilities. All nine of the community college facilities GO bond measures were approved by voters. Three of the measures received greater than two-thirds voter approval.
- Miscellaneous. The miscellaneous GO bond measures include State projects for alternative fuel cars/renewable energy (Proposition 10), public transportation (Proposition 1A), and veteran’s farms and homes (Proposition 12). As previously stated, Proposition 10 did not garner enough voter support to pass, but Propositions 1A and 12 passed with 52.7 percent and 63.6 percent, respectively, of the vote. The remaining approved miscellaneous measures are for local projects, which include parks/open space/wildlife, libraries, and athletic facilities.
- Public Health and Safety. All five of the measures in this category, which includes Proposition 3, received voter approval. The four local GO bond measures received a great deal of voter support, with approval ranging from 69.3 percent to 83.8 percent. See Figure 3.

Voters authorized issuing nearly $36.4 billion, passing 98 (89.9 percent) measures. See Figure 2.

GENERAL AND SPECIAL TAX MEASURES

Local governments placed 120 tax measures on the ballot. Sixty-three measures (52.5 percent) proposed the levy of special taxes, thereby requiring approval by two-thirds of voters. Fifty-seven measures proposed general taxes and required a simple majority approval. Overall, voters approved 77 tax measures (64.2 percent), as displayed in Figure 4.

The tax measures can be grouped into five categories by purpose: general government, K-12 education, public health and safety, capital improvements, and miscellaneous.

- General Government. Voters considered 57 general government tax measures: 23 utility users taxes (UUT), 20 sales taxes, 11 transient occupancy taxes (TOT), one payroll tax, one real estate tax, and one real property transfer tax. Voters approved 40 of these measures.

- Public Health and Safety. Twenty-three public health and safety tax measures appeared on the ballot; voters approved 11. The approved tax measures will fund emergency services, fire protection services, firefighter paramedic services, beach/ocean, and drug and gang prevention programs/police services.
- K-12 Education. Twenty-one tax measures proposed levying special taxes for K-12 education purposes. Voters approved 17 of these measures.
- Miscellaneous. Voters considered 17 miscellaneous special tax measures, approving eight. The proceeds

- Capital Improvements. Voters were presented with two special tax measures: a business license tax for capital improvement projects and a sales tax measure for street improvements. Voters approved the business license tax measure, but did not support the sales tax measure.

RESULTS BY REGION

The election results can also be reviewed for regional differences. Staff divided the results into the five regions detailed in Figure 6.

As Figure 7 shows, the Bay Area region approved the greatest number of measures in the November 2008 General Election (48 bond and tax measures), followed by the Los Angeles region (43 measures).

In the November 2008 General Election, the Bay Area region had a passage rate higher than any other region (88.9 percent) (see Figure 8). The passage rate of bond and tax measures in the Los Angeles region was the next highest (86.0 percent) in the November 2008 General Election, followed by the San Diego/Inland Empire region (79.3 percent).

Appendix B contains a listing of individual measures by county and Appendix C contains a listing of measures by region.

COMPARISON OF THE 2006 AND 2008 GENERAL ELECTIONS

COMPARISON BY THE MEASURE'S VOTE REQUIREMENT

Figure 9 provides a breakdown of the passage requirement for the bond and tax measures appearing on the 2006 General Election and the 2008 General Election ballots. Measures requiring a majority vote in the 2008 General Election, which were predominately for general government purposes, received 70.5 percent voter approval. The total number of approved measures exceeded the 2006 General Election by 22.9 percent.

Approximately 42 percent of the 2008 General Election measures and roughly 32 percent of the 2006 General Election measures required 55 percent voter approval. Most of these measures were comprised of education GO bonds. Measures requiring 55 percent voter approval received far more voter support than those measures requiring two-thirds voter approval. In the 2008 General Election, 90.5 percent of the measures requiring 55 percent were approved by voters. In the 2006 General Election, 82.4 percent of measures requiring 55 voter approval received voter support.

COMPARISON BY TYPE OF MEASURE

Figure 10 provides a breakdown of the types of bond and tax measures on the general election ballots. Measures considered in the 2008 General Election received more overall voter support (76.4 percent) compared to 64.9 percent for the 2006 General Election.

The general tax measures received greater voter support than special tax measures in both the 2008 and 2006 General Elections (70.2 percent and 65.1 percent, respectively). Special tax measures, which required two-thirds voter approval, received 58.7 percent approval in the 2008 General Election and 60.0 percent approval on the 2006 General Election ballot.

The GO bond measures were comprised mainly of education measures. The majority of the GO bond measures required 55 percent voter approval. There were ten GO bond measures on the 2008 General Election ballot that required two-thirds voter approval; nine of those measures passed. In the 2006 General Election, there were sixteen GO bond measures requiring a two-thirds vote, but only three measures received voter support.

* Includes three Statewide tax measures: California oil producers' tax, parcel tax, and a cigarette tax. Also includes a local measure that is a special tax and bond combination.

There were no miscellaneous measures on the 2008 General Election Ballot.

COMPARISON BY REGION

A summary of votes by regions is provided in Figure 11. The 58 counties have been categorized into five different regions. A few of the measures that appeared on the ballots in the other region category spanned more than one county and region.

In general, voter support was greater in the 2008 General Election than in the 2006 General Election. In 2008, voters approved 76.4 percent of the general election ballot measures as opposed to 64.9 percent in the 2006 General Election. In the 2008 General Election, all of the regions approved more than 50.0 percent of the ballot measures. In both the 2006 and 2008 General Elections, the Los Angeles, San Diego/Inland Empire, and Bay Area regions are the top three regions that have the highest passage rates of bond and tax measures.

COMPARISON BY PURPOSE

Figure 12 summarizes the types of projects appearing on the General Election ballots. Projects that comprise the miscellaneous category include the following: Alternative energy, beach/coastal maintenance, parks/recreation, swimming pools, housing, libraries, a mosquito abatement program, open space/clean water/farmland protection, public employees' retirement, tourism, water, flood control, natural resources, conservation projects, athletic facilities, gang prevention programs, public transit services, road improvements, health facilities, and storm water systems.

The category of measures with the highest overall approval rate was education (88.0 percent in the 2008 General Election and 76.6 percent in the 2006 General Election). This category includes both K-12 school facilities and community college facilities. Not only was the passage rate higher for education measures on the 2008 General Election ballot than the 2006 General Election ballot, the number of 2008 education measures increased 51.9 percent (from 77 measures in 2006 to 117 measures in 2008).

In the 2008 General Election, capital improvements measures received the least support from voters (50.0 percent), but it also had the fewest number of measures (two). With only a 48.3 percent passage rate, capital improvement measures also received little voter support on the 2006 General Election ballot.
