STAFF SUMMARY AND RECOMMENDATION

Claremont McKenna College (“CMC”)

April 26, 2007

Final Resolution Number: 246

I. PURPOSE OF FINANCING: Bond proceeds will be used to construct, renovate and equip various facilities throughout the campus. CMC may also use a portion of the proceeds to refund CEFA Pooled Series 1995 A bonds and advance refund a portion of CEFA Series 1999 bonds. CMC is seeking Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (“LEED”) certification on the new buildings to be constructed with this financing.

Construction, renovation and acquisition of various campus facilities $31,359,626

CMC plans to construct, renovate, furnish and equip certain on campus buildings including student dormitories, faculty/staff housing, gymnasium and athletic track.

Refunding..... 15,028,582

CMC anticipates refunding its entire remaining outstanding portion of the CEFA Pooled 1995 Series A bonds. The 1995 Series A bonds were originally used to advance refund CMC’s portion of CEFA Pooled Series 1987 bonds.

CMC will also advance refund a portion of CEFA Series 1999 bonds. The 1999 bonds were used, in part, to refund and defease CEFA Series 1997. The 1997 bonds were applied to finance the acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, remodeling, renovation and/or equipping of two academic expansion buildings.

Financial Discussion:

CMC has shown increased profitably in each of the last three years due to steady revenue growth and controlled expenditure growth.

CMC has exhibited solid revenue growth over the last three years going from nearly $57.7 in FY 2004 to $63 million in FY 2006. Revenues consist primarily of tuition and investment income providing CMC with liquidity and flexibility. Tuition revenue has increased an average of 8% each year providing stable growth. Investment income designated for operations had decreased by about 7%. This decrease was related to the payout formula established by CMC that captured negative investment performance recorded during the past three years and the Board of Trustees decision to reduce operating expenses and the amount of investment income withdrawn under the spending formula. With CMC's plan to reduce their reliance on investment income for operations, CMC will rely more on student revenues and private gifts.

CMC has been given a bequest in which they will receive a beneficial interest in a trust to be distributed within the next eight years. This bequest will increase the private gifts and grants by approximately 74% or $11.2 million and contribute to the growth of CMC's revenue base.

CMC has controlled expenditures, increasing only 6% compared to an increase in revenues of 9% over the last three years. CMC continues to implement controls over the expenses.

CMC's balance sheet is strong with good liquidity and significant financial resources.

CMC's balance sheet continues to grow with positive operating results and continued earnings from its investments. Liquidity is good with over $60 million in cash and short-term investments. CMC currently has $31 million in long-term debt compared to over $486 million in total net assets. CMC's debt-to-expendable net assets have remained steady and even with the proposed financing will be acceptable at .22x. Debt service coverage is high at 17.26x, and with the proposed debt, the proforma debt service coverage remains high with 8.13x. CMC's ability to handle this additional debt is evident.

III. BACKGROUND:

CMC is a non-profit, privately endowed co-educational liberal arts college with an emphasis on economics, government and international relations. Enrollment for the 2002-2003 academic year is 1,009 full time equivalent students, 100 percent of whom are undergraduate students. CMC was founded in 1946 as Claremont Men's College and became coeducational in 1976, then was renamed in 1981 in honor of founding trustee Donald C. McKenna.

CMC's mission is to prepare students for leadership roles in business, government and the professions. A focused mission, prominent faculty, the Marian Miner Cook Athenaeum speaker series, a Washington D.C. internship program, a community service internship program, the Children's School at Claremont McKenna College, and nine on-campus research institutes are a few of many distinguishing feature of CMC. The campus consists of approximately 50 acres and 39 buildings.

CMC is a member of The Claremont Colleges, a consortium comprised of five undergraduate colleges and two graduate schools sharing common resources that rival other major universities. Modeled on the Oxford system in England, the consortium is located 35 miles east of Los Angeles at the foot of the San Gabriel Mountains.

Administration:

CMC is governed by a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees composed of not less than 25 and not more than 46 voting members. There are currently 36 regular voting members, three alumni voting trustees, two ex-officio voting members, and 18 non-voting life members. The two ex-officio members who sit with the Board are the President of the Alumni Association and the President of the Parents Club, each of whom serve one-year terms. With the exception of the President of the College, who serves by virtue of her office, all regular and alumni members are elected to three-year terms. Approximately one-third of the members are elected annually.

Accreditations:

CMC is accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC"), the primary accrediting body for institutions of higher education in the Western United States. The most recent WASC visit was in October 1999. The next scheduled WASC visit is in the fall of 2009.

Academic Programs:

CMC offers a liberal arts curriculum, with 28 separate majors in nine departments. Interdisciplinary majors in a number of additional subjects through The Claremont Colleges consortium, as are options for independent study and combined degree programs. Students may graduate with a single, dual, double or individualized major. They may also elect to complete majors at any of the other undergraduate institutions within The Claremont Colleges.
