Non-Investment Grade and Unrated Bond Issuance Guidelines

October 25, 2012

Background

CEFA and CHFFA (together, the “Authorities”) established written bond issuance guidelines (the “Guidelines”) in 1999 and 2000, respectively. These Guidelines covered the entire range of ratings for bond issuances, from investment grade to non-investment grade to unrated debt. In 2010, the Authorities formed a working group to evaluate the Guidelines and to research and discuss whether they merited an update, given the changes in the market, the increased number of exceptions to the Guidelines borrowers were requesting from the Authorities and the near decade of time that had passed since the Guidelines were originally implemented. The Authorities formed a working group composed of representatives from the following: (1) staff from both Authorities, (2) counsel routinely serving as bond counsel to the Authorities, (3) counsel from the Treasurer’s office, (4) counsel from the Attorney General’s Office, (5) the Authorities’ financial advisor, Public Financial Management, and (6) the State Treasurer’s Office Public Finance Division.

The working group first identified the dividing line between investment grade and non-investment grade securities. After considering previous board presentations from representatives of Moody’s Investor’s Services and Public Financial Management, the working group concluded the threshold for investment grade securities should be Baa3/BBB-/BBB- and above. The group then worked to develop a new process for staff diligence and investigation for reviewing the credit package proffered by borrower finance teams for investment grade rated transactions. In September 2010, staff presented to their respective boards, the Revenue Bond Application Resources and Review Process for investment grade rated debt which the boards then approved. The working group agreed to reconvene at a later time to revise the non-investment grade and unrated debt guidelines.

Proposed New Guidelines for Non-Investment Grade Rated and Unrated Transactions

Presently, the Authorities continue to follow the Guidelines developed in 1999 and 2000, respectively, for less than investment grade and unrated bond issuances. In addition to other requirements, the Guidelines call for issuances in such cases to be privately placed with a Qualified Institutional Buyer¹ (“QIB”). Over the last several years, due in part to the current state of the market and general lack of availability of credit enhancement, the Authorities have experienced an increase in the number of borrowers requesting bond financings as unrated debt. As such, the Authorities decided it was an appropriate time to evaluate the Guidelines to determine if provisions, such as private placements with QIBs, for non-investment grade and unrated debt bond transactions merited an update.

As with the investment grade review exercise, the members of the working group engaged in a variety of activities to evaluate the less than investment grade and unrated portion of the Guidelines. The group assessed and discussed each of the provisions in the Guidelines to determine their validity in the current market. Additionally, the group reviewed the policies of other conduit issuers who also issue non-investment grade and unrated bonds.

¹ Institutional investors that own and invest at least $100 million in securities.

Prior to making any conclusive decisions regarding provisions for non-investment grade and unrated debt, the working group contemplated various scenarios to aid in their evaluation. Should the Authorities allow public offerings for less than investment grade and unrated issuances and if so, should the Authorities consider different policies for private placement versus public offerings? Should there be different policies for borrowers with an underlying investment grade rating versus borrowers with no underlying rating? Does it make sense to routinely require borrowers to fund a debt service reserve fund? If the Authorities require restrictions on transfers and minimum denominations, would this eliminate the possibility of bonds being split by selling participatory shares?

After discussing the questions in the above paragraph as well as reviewing the policies of other conduit issuers, the working group agreed upon the following set of minimum requirements for all non-investment grade and unrated bond transactions:

1. Must be privately placed with and transferred only to a “Qualified Institutional Buyer” as defined by SEC Rule 144a,
2. Minimum denominations of $250,000,
3. Unconditional promise to pay from Borrower,
4. An Investor Letter is required at initial issuance (The Authority reserves the right to discuss and require a Traveling Investor Letter as circumstances may warrant),
5. Bond transfer restrictions must be noted conspicuously on the bond itself and bonds must be physically delivered*

*If a borrower prefers book-entry DTC and provides a reasonable rationale for its use to the Authority, the Authority will consider reassurances that subsequent transfers will comply with applicable transfer restrictions.

These requirements are designed to minimize the Authorities’ risk exposure while establishing minimum parameters for borrowers requesting bond issuances as unrated debt or with a bond rating of less than Baa3/BBB-/BBB-. It should be noted that these requirements may be amended for a borrower, following board approval, if the borrower obtains an investment grade rating at a later time.

CHFFA’s original guidelines also address required loan security provisions for its Equipment Program. The working group reviewed these provisions and agreed they needed only a minor revision as reflected in the attached draft. Please note, Authority staff intends to focus on this program in the foreseeable future to determine how the program might be expanded. Program changes might generate recommended guidelines changes in which case staff would bring any such recommended changes before the board for consideration.

Less than BBB-/BBB-/Baa3 or Unrated Debt

While all projects must demonstrate financial feasibility, these guidelines describe what CHFFA would expect to see given a transaction (or borrower) with a particular rating (or no rating). The Authority would reserve the right to use its discretion as necessary and appropriate. The Authority acknowledges that each financing must be reviewed individually and exceptions to these guidelines may be considered if the applicant demonstrates that such exception is a necessary part of a cost-effective and prudent borrowing strategy. Conversely, the Authority retains the flexibility to request additional provisions as circumstances warrant.
