From the Desk of California State Treasurer Fiona Ma

Dear Friends,

MAY 2021

People with disabilities are using their CalABLE accounts to better their lives. They can place their money in a variety of mutual funds and save up to $100,000 without worrying that they are jeopardizing their eligibility for critical government programs, including Supplemental Security Income and Medi-Cal.

But who are the people behind the accounts? This month we get to meet some of them through the new CalABLE Ambassadors' program, and find out how the program helps them. Among the Ambassadors a college student studying video production, another working on two separate certificates, and a "sit down" comedian.

To date, more than 5,000 CalABLE accounts have been opened and nearly $50 million in assets have been deposited. But far more people could be benefitting. One reason some are not: the federal ABL Act only allow individuals whose disability began before their 26th birthday to open an account.

This is a great injustice. As chair of the ABL committee of the National Association of State Treasurers, I am working closely with U.S. Reps. Tony Cardenas and Judy Chu from California and U.S. Rep. Cathy McMorris Rodgers from Washington. Together, they have introduced the ABL Age Adjustment Act to expand eligibility to anyone whose disability occurred before the age of 46.

We have high hopes this year that the legislation will pass. But we need help. CalABLE has resources available on its website if you are interested in writing to your congressional representatives to support the legislation. The bill could change the lives of up to 8 million people with disabilities by helping them rise out of poverty, plan for their future, and achieve their dreams.

In Peace and Friendship,

Fiona Ma, CPA
California State Treasurer

Dear Fiona,

I'm exploring various savings and investment options for my daughter who suffers from bipolar disorder.

Are individuals diagnosed with mental health conditions eligible to open a CalABLE account?

Sincerely,

Nora

Dear Nora,

CalABLE is a great savings and investment option for individuals with a disability. It provides tax-free earnings on qualified withdrawals, no impact on federal and California state benefits, and a flexible savings program.

A condition that results in marked and severe functional limitations will qualify an individual to open an CalABLE account so long as the disability began before the age of 26.

The conditions that qualify an individual for eligibility to open a CalABLE account include physical, developmental, and even mental health conditions. Examples of qualifying conditions can be found in the Social Security Administration's Blue Book (Parts A and B), as well as the SSA's List of Compassionate Allowances Conditions. It is important to note that in addition to meeting the age of onset requirement, individuals must also be entitled to receive a disability-based benefit (SSI or SSDI) or have blindness; or have a Disability Certification signed by a licensed physician indicating that their significant disability onset occurred prior to age 26.

For more information and to open an account, please visit the the following website: <https://www.calable.ca.gov/>.

Sincerely,

Fiona

Introducing our CalABLE Ambassadors

Ambassadors spotlight CalABLE to help people with disabilities achieve their dreams

They come from all over the state and from all walks of life. But one thing the six CalABLE Ambassadors have in common is that all of them use and advocate for CalABLE, a savings and investment program for people with disabilities. Several Ambassadors regularly appear in CalABLE promotions to share how they use the program.

"Each Ambassador is a strong advocate for how the CalABLE program has enabled them or their loved ones to live independently," said Treasurer Ma. "Their lives tell the story of how the program can help people with disabilities achieve their dreams."

CalABLE gives eligible Californians and out-of-state residents the ability to save for disability-related expenses by putting money in tax-advantaged investments. At the same time, it protects their eligibility for means-tested public benefits programs. They can use money in their accounts to pay for housing, higher education, equipment, and many other things. Dante Allen, CalABLE Executive Director agrees.

"The Ambassadors are an extension of the CalABLE team, helping to spread the word about CalABLE and sharing their personal experiences on how the program is helping each of them achieve a better life."

Dante Allen, Executive Director of CalABLE

Antonio Contreras, of Alameda County, attends Georgia Tech and is working toward acquiring two certificates—one in Academic Enrichment, Social Fluency and Career Exploration, and another in Social Growth, Leadership, and Career Development. Antonio resides in a student apartment with three other roommates, works part-time at L.A. Fitness and Decatur CoWorks and has an internship on campus at the Student Information desk. "My parents helped me open a CalABLE account so I can save money for college," Antonio said.

Armand Bujanda, of Los Angeles County, recently graduated from Arizona State University and wants to attend graduate school. In 2018-2019, he was on the Youth Advisory Council for YO! Disabled & Proud, a program of the California Foundation for Independent Living Centers (CFILC). Armand supports the disabilities community by working with youth at his local Independent Living Center, helping young people transition from high school to college, apply for benefits, and become financially independent. "CalABLE has set me up to succeed in the life goals I have set out for myself," said Armand.

Sandra Smith is the mother of Chad Smith, a CalABLE account holder. Sandra, a special education teacher, and Chad live in Sacramento County. A strong advocate for those with disabilities, Sandra is the former chair of the California State Council on Developmental Disabilities (SCDD) and Chair of Disability Rights California, a nonprofit that defends, advances, and strengthens the rights and opportunities of people with disabilities. "ABLE has given us a great opportunity to go beyond the limit of $2,000 for folks to save if they want public assistance," Sandra said.

Our hearts go out to Alan Reid and the Reid family on the passing of Mason Reid from a brain tumor earlier this year. Alan, of Marin County, has graciously agreed to continue serving as an Ambassador for the program. When Mason was diagnosed with a brain tumor, he had to relearn all the basic skills of talking, sitting up, eating, and standing. He was very excited and proud to attend the Pathways program and to be an artist at Cedars Life, where his work was featured in the Roller Coaster Online Art exhibit. "CalABLE fit a huge void. Up until now, there's really been nothing to help people save for what's a high likelihood - and that's disability. CalABLE gave us that bridge to migrate his money to allow him to have access to it for his disability benefits," Alan said.

CalABLE, which stands for California Achieving a Better Life Experience, manages more than $48 million in assets for more than 7,000 account holders. The CalABLE Savings Plan opened to the public on December 18, 2018.

CalABLE is involved in a nationwide effort to allow more people to take advantage of the financial benefits it offers. Right now, to be eligible for CalABLE, a person has to have their disability occur before age 26.

Federal legislation in both the House and the Senate would expand eligibility by allowing people whose disability occurred before the age of 46 to participate. This expansion would open the program to 8 million more people throughout the nation.

The Ambassadors' stories are captured in a video here:

Angelina Neglia is the mother of Tyler Schutz, a CalABLE account holder. Both live in San Diego County. Tyler attends the San Diego City College and is majoring in Radio, Television, Video, and Film Production, and doing a paid internship with a video film production company with the help of the San Diego Regional Center. CalABLE, Angelina said, opens the door to life's possibilities for Tyler, allowing him to "lead a normal life like any person without living under a cloud" and worrying about whether earning money will cause his benefits to be cut.

Miguel Lugo, of Los Angeles County, is a motivational speaker and "sit down" comedian because his cerebral palsy limits his standing and walking. He has performed in a variety of venues. "The CalABLE program can and will have a positive effect on everyone who has an account," Miguel said. "It has revived many of the goals I had that at one point seemed nearly impossible. Now, I can see myself purchasing a home."
